EXPODIRECT
Trade Event Furniture

Product Specification Sheet

sales@expodirect.co.uk | 0800 910 1919

EventPro® Series Tolix Style Steel Chair – Red

SKU: TOLCHRED
Category: Chairs, Outdoor, EventPro® Series, Free Shipping, Tolix Style Chairs
Condition: New

£38.50 ex-VAT

Description

EventPro® Series Tolix Style Steel Chair – Red

A heavy-duty powder-coated steel chair in red, suitable for both indoor and outdoor use. Overall height: 84cm. Width: 46cm. Depth: 46cm. Stackable up to 10 high. The rain-resistant powder-coat finish handles outdoor exposure without rust or coating failure. Red steel chairs make an immediate visual impact at food festivals, Christmas events, brand activations, and themed dining.

Indoor and Outdoor Use

The powder-coat finish seals the steel against moisture. Rain beads off. UV exposure does not degrade the coating or fade the red pigment in normal UK conditions. Deploy at outdoor events, pavement cafes, pub gardens, and rooftop terraces through the event season without concern for weather damage.

Indoors, red steel chairs suit Italian restaurants, wine bars, Christmas-themed corporate events, and any venue where warmth and energy are part of the atmosphere.

Stacking

The chairs stack up to 10 high. The all-metal construction absorbs stacking impacts without cracking or deforming. Ten stacked chairs occupy the floor space of one, making off-season storage and between-event clearance fast and space-efficient.

The Red Colour

Red creates energy and warmth. It suits Christmas parties, Valentine events, Chinese New Year celebrations, brand activations for red-identity companies, and pop-up dining concepts where the furniture contributes to the theme. At food festivals and street food markets, red chairs signal informality and conviviality.

Red also works as an accent within a mixed-colour scheme. Scatter red chairs among black for contrast, or alternate red and white for a bold pattern that reads well in aerial photography of outdoor dining areas.

Part of the EventPro® range. Trusted by the BBC, ITV, Cambridge University, and used at the Commonwealth Games.

Buying in Bulk

If you are buying 50, 100, or 200 chairs, the ten high stack keeps bulk storage under control. One stack holds ten chairs in one footprint, so pub gardens, food festival bars, and event terraces can clear large seating runs without filling the yard. Buyers who build branded dining zones often order in blocks of 40 or 80 so each site carries spare stock and a strong colour line from gate to bar. The all steel build takes the knocks that come with van loading, fencing, and fast turn rounds.

You can pair red Tolix style chairs with black tables, timber tops, white linen, or silver service counters from the EventPro® range. Red works well when you want the furniture to carry part of the brief, not sit as background stock. Brand teams, Christmas venues, sports clubs, and street food traders choose red for that reason. Under warm festoon light the colour looks rich. Under daylight it reads clean and direct.

Buyers in education, hospitality, and civic venues use red to mark a café zone, a sponsor lounge, or a youth area without extra signs. In low winter light the colour keeps its depth. In bright summer light it reads clean and bold across large terraces.

Layout Planning

You can seat four people around compact square tables, or run pairs and fours down long refectory tables for markets and casual dining. If you are laying out a 100 seat room, count at least 60cm per diner and keep 1.2 metres for main aisles. Hold more space near exits, bars, and service lanes. Event planners using strong colour seating often keep one or two neutral zones in the room so the eye can rest and guests can move without crowding.

The ten high stack matters on set day because crews can move 100 chairs in ten stacks and clear the floor for stage, dance, or dining resets. The steel seat and lower braces spread guest weight through the frame, so the chair keeps a firm feel on paving, timber decks, and hard floors. Buyers who need colour and hard use strength in one line tend to shortlist this style fast.

Care and Service Life

Staff can wipe the chair with warm water and mild detergent after service. Sweep grit from stack zones before chairs go down because grit marks any finish over time. If a site leaves the chairs outside through the season, stock teams should check the feet and the joint points during counts and pull any chipped unit for touch up. Buyers who store the chairs under cover in winter and move them on trolleys get long service from a bold stock line.

Material: heavy-duty powder-coated steel
Colour: red
Overall height: 84cm
Width: 46cm
Depth: 46cm
Stackable: up to 10 high
Use: indoor and outdoor
Weather resistance: rain-resistant powder-coat finish
Part of the EventPro® range

Free courier delivery is included. Order this chair and we get it to your door at no extra cost, anywhere on the UK mainland.

Specifications

Dimensions: 50cm x 45cm x 132cm
Weight: 4.20 kg